> The dry cold weather of the early winter months is productive of a great deal of croup among children. Mothers should be on the lookout for it, and be prepared to arrest it as soon as the first symtoms appear. True croup never comes without warning; a day or two before the attack the child will become hoarse, and that symtom is soon followed by a peculiar, rough cough. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as this hoarseness or cough appears, all danger and anxiety may be the most severe cases. There is no danger in giving the Remedy for it contains no injurious substances. For
